Bradfield College: House on the Hill.

Opened in 1899 the House on the Hill was the first purpose built School House at Bradfield. It has a "Georgian Palatial Style" and was once isolated from the rest of the School, although now it is surrounded by mature lime trees, lawns, buildings and sports facilities. It was originally built for school children from Naval backgrounds, a scheme that ended in 1903. The House on the Hill originally had its own kitchens and has many large common rooms which were once classrooms, these are suitable for Disco's, TV, games and meetings.

In 1920 the East and West wings of the House were divided into two separate although linked boarding houses. Both have computer centres with email and web access. There are two substantial bathroom/toilet blocks on each floor and also four small kitchen areas for preparing drinks and snacks.

Residents of the House on the Hill will find that it is close to both All Weather Pitches as well as the Hill 2 grassed area making it particularly well resourced for recreational purposes. The other main benefit is that the combined capacity of the East and West wings is over 100 beds making it possible for a large group to be accommodated in the same building.
